The Evidence Base for Being a Reader

The pedagogy of Collaborative Classroom’s Being a Reader™ is informed by best practices and research-based recommendations for reading instruction. This Evidence Base Guide was developed to highlight the research support for the instructional practices in the Being a Reader program, along with the common elements of the instruction that align to these practices.

The guide was developed by drawing on national literacy reports, meta-analyses of research studies, and Institute for Education Sciences (IES) practice guides (see reference lists for more detail).

The guide may be used by curriculum adoption committees, district administrators, research staff, teachers, literacy coaches, or grant writers to cite relevant sources, develop ESSA plans, develop research studies, or support implementation and professional learning.

The following high-leverage practices were identified for the Being a Reader program:

- Teach Comprehension Strategies
- Facilitate Text Discussion, Speaking and Listening, and Social Skills
- Engage Students in Dialogic Reading
- Teach about Text Features and Genres
- Provide Explicit Instruction with Connected, Independent Reading
- Support Academic Language and Vocabulary Knowledge
- Provide Assessment and Differentiation
- Establish Early Reading Foundational Skills: Phonological Awareness, Phonics, and Decoding

| • Provide repeated oral reading with feedback and guidance to develop fluency, including questioning the text, providing feedback to students, repeating, expanding, and modeling | • Teach students to identify and use the text’s organizational structure to comprehend, learn, and remember content
• Teach reading comprehension with multiple genres | Teaching Children to Read (2000) |
| • The teacher reads and rereads carefully selected large-format texts and/or trade books with the whole class, models effective reading behaviors and strategies, and invites the students to be involved in reading and discussing the texts
• Students wonder and answer questions before, during, and after a read-aloud to make sense of text
• The teacher models fluent reading and uses comprehension strategies. “Thinking Tools” used to guide students through texts are also modeled | • Text features, text structure, and story elements (e.g., sequencing, setting, theme, character, problem and solution, compare and contrast, cause and effect) are used to understand different genres
• Genres taught: fiction, biography, expository nonfiction, narrative nonfiction, persuasive nonfiction, drama, and poetry | Developing Early Literacy (2008) |

| Provide Explicit Instruction and Connected, Independent Reading | Small-Group Reading (Sets 1–5):
  - Students receive explicit instruction in phonics, decoding, high-frequency word recognition, and comprehension—practicing the skills immediately in appropriately leveled texts
  Individualized Daily Reading:
  - Students read independently in self-selected texts at their independent reading levels
  - The teacher confers with individual students, helping them select appropriate books and assessing and supporting their reading
  Independent Work:
  - Students work independently on meaningful literacy activities (reading, writing, word work) while the teacher instructs small groups or individuals  |
|---------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| • Provide both explicit instruction in specific comprehension strategies and a great deal of time and opportunity for actual reading, writing, and discussion of text
  • Ensure that each student reads connected text every day to support reading accuracy, fluency, and comprehension
  • Give students reading choices  | IES Practice Guides

| • Word Study lessons focus on developing the strategies students can use to decode polysyllabic words (e.g., base words, meaningful affixes, and identifying strategies for dividing words into syllables)
  • Introduction of challenging vocabulary embedded in read-alouds
  • Explicit instruction of Tier 2 vocabulary words and independent word-learning strategies (e.g., affixes, antonyms, synonyms, multiple-meaning words, context clues, idioms, roots, and compound words)
  • The teacher is alerted at the start of each lesson to address vocabulary terms and definitions that will be used with students |
